IMPLANTING CONFIDENCE

To help alleviate your hip pain and get you moving again, we've developed the Mobile Bearing Hip System designed to help prevent dislocation.

Our Mobile Bearing Hip System features X3 Precisely Engineered Polyethylene that may enhance joint stability, provide a more natural range of motion, and minimize the risk of wear that may help prolong the life of the implant.

stryker MOBILE BEARING HIP SYSTEM

Stability • Longevity • Fixation

Test results demonstrated approximately 145° range of motion in a front-to-back sweep — a full 5% gain in range of motion when compared with fixed-bearing implants of equivalent size. Stryker's Mobile Bearing Hip™ is designed to better accommodate your natural walking (gait) cycle of movement in range of motion.

RESTORATION ACH COMPONENT

Dual Mobility

• TWO POINTS OF ARTICULATION •

Restoration ACH is a Mobile Bearing Hip designed to help increase patient ROM and joint longevity while providing moderate constraint. The patented anatomic dual mobility cup design reduces the risk of hip dislocation by mimicking the shape of the natural anatomy.

Regenerate Your Lifestyle. Discover the Carticel Advantage.

ARTROGENOUS CHONDROCYTE IMPLANTATION

Carticel is a collagen product using your own (autologous) cultured cartilage cells (chondrocytes) to repair the damaged articular surface in your knee. These cultured chondrocytes will regenerate articular tissue, and are returned to your doctor and put back into your knee.

Carticel is derived from a culture expansion of chondrocytes harvested from the patient's normal, healthy articular cartilage. Biopaper has a three-week healing time and is the most effective, safe, and reliable approach through cell culture and expansion into cellular cartilage. Carticel is an autologous conditioned serum. Prior to that packaging, cell viability is maintained for at least 180 days.

AML
Acute Myeloid Leukemia (Leukemia)

When older patients with AML are not likely to, or cannot benefit from, standard intensive chemotherapy. What happens next?

Genzyme Oncology: Committed to What's Best

Genzyme Oncology is committed to continuing research to meet the needs of older patients with AML and those who cannot tolerate intensive therapy.

The results we need for:

- Enhanced ability to quickly identify poor-risk factors
- Early identification of patients who likely to benefit from standard therapy
- Improved QoL rates
- The ability to achieve a CR in AML, long needed through clinical research
- Reduced adverse rates
- The opportunity to get the most out of their time and body

Other AML Patients Are Often At Risk of Poor Outcomes

Older patients with AML may also benefit from standard therapy, but they are at a higher risk for:

- Intensive age and performance risk assessments
- Adverse QoL
- Poor ECOG performance rates
- High relapse rates

There is also no standard of care for treatment of older patients with AML.

- Complete response (CR) rates in patients 60 years with first relapse therapy are low (20%)
- More than 80% of patients achieving a complete remission have relapsed (recurrence) rates for a cure
